The horse was finally stopped by the fire engine at the building, doing no more damage than demolishing the driver's clothes and springing an axle.

THE STONE PILE.

A Move Being Made to Secure One for Omaha's Criminals.

The joint committee of citizens, fire and police commissioners, county board and council met Wednesday afternoon in the fire and police commissioners' room. Those present were as follows: Messrs. M. A. Upton, E. L. Pease and E. W. Simeral, of the citizens; County Commissioners Anderson, Turner and Corrigan, Fire and Police Commissioners Bennett, Gilbert and Hartman, Councilmen Bechel, McLeary and Donnelly, County Attorney Mahoney.

Commissioner Turner suggested the erection of a stockade on the county farm in which vagabonds could be confined and compelled to break stone.

County Attorney Mahoney said that in Dubuque and other Iowa cities prisoners worked on the streets with a chain and ball attached to their legs. When caught on which they were engaged was finished, they could lift up the ball and move along.

Commissioner Corrigan did not like the proposed ball and chain. Frequently men were sent to jail under peculiar circumstances, and for being only passing drunk. It would be a disgrace to such to put them on the street with a chain and ball.

Mr. Anderson thought the courts could regulate the matter.

Mr. Mahoney did not think it made much difference between a stockade and a ball and chain.

Mr. Corrigan said there could be no objection to putting prisoners breaking rock. He received an idea from Haskell that work of that kind was now done by crusher and that therefore it did not interfere with honest manual labor.

Mr. Hartman said prisoners on the street should not be worked without a ball and chain because some foolhardy fellow might start an riot, and in the result of him, the officer would probably shoot and kill some innocent person.

Mr. Pease thought that the working of criminals would tend to diminish crime.

Mr. Mahoney said that if the police judge did not think the man wicked enough to wear a ball and chain, the man to the jail or stockade. There were notorious crooks who had spent time in the penitentiaries whom it would be unsafe to trust on the street without ball and chain.

Mr. Hartman said there was a class of perpetual drunks whom it would not be advisable to let out with a chain.

Mr. Anderson thought that there were but a few of that class who had run away while working around the county house.

Mr. Upton admitted that it was because the county fed them too well.

Mr. Corrigan said that he had been told by one of the prisoners that the county jail was the best boarding house he had ever had.

Mr. Upton was opposed to working the prisoners on the street. It was offensive to the eye, to see prisoners on the streets who ought to be in brickyards or laboring in other places. It was not conducive to good citizenship to see men with a ball and chain on the street. Let them be put to work out of the sight of thousands who otherwise could see them daily.

Mr. Anderson said convicts could be seen every day on the streets of Lincoln.

Mr. Upton admitted the fact and stated also that it was decidedly offensive to good citizens and ladies.

Mr. Bechel wanted to know if any estimate had been made of the cost of a stockade.

Mr. Turner did not think the cost would be very great.

Mr. Corrigan favored a ball and chain inside the stockade than without it on the street.

Mr. Hartman understood that it was not the intention to use a ball and chain except in case of a man whom it was desired to be rid of.

Mr. Simeral then moved that a committee be appointed to ascertain if grounds on the railroad near the jail could be secured where prisoners might be put to work breaking rock.

The committee consists of Messrs. Anderson, Turner, O'Keefe, Gilbert, Bechel, Donnelly, Pease, Mahoney and Upton. It will meet next Saturday morning at the same place.

Mysterious Death of Mrs. Sherburne. May 19 there appeared in the Chicago Tribune an article headed as above which related on certain points the death of Mrs. Sherburne. The following has been received by a member of the order in the city, from Mr. Bertram Keightley, private secretary to Madam Blavatsky:

I was in the mountains at a hotel about one hundred miles from Los Angeles. A telegram was received from J. H. Murray asking me to come at once to Los Angeles on important business. In response to this I immediately left my hotel, and Murray met me at the depot at Los Angeles and told me Mrs. Sherburne was in camp near Arcadia, Calif., and that he had no help. This was the first knowledge I had that he or she was there. I at once went to Arcadia with Mr. Murray and found Mrs. Sherburne sick in the mountains. The doctor examined her and gave a certificate, and as Mr. Murray said they had no money I paid the first fee. Subsequently Mrs. Sherburne's husband and I went with the physicians. He also telegraphed ordering cremation. There was no mystery in the matter in any way. BERTRAM KEIGHTLEY.

Interesting to the People of Omaha.

We notice with pleasure that Russell, Pratt & Co. are devoting their entire energies to furnishing fine gas and electric fixtures for residences and public buildings. The convenience of having a house devoted entirely to such specialties will be appreciated by all who contemplate building.

Embrace all that is new and original in the line of gas and electric fixtures. The people of Omaha are showing by their liberal patronage that they do value the presence of such a firm in their midst. Messrs. Russell, Pratt & Co., in addition to their retail business, are enjoying a large share of the wholesale trade tributary to this point. Their trade now extends over the west and is growing daily.

Russell, Pratt & Co.'s business has grown with Omaha's growth, and is a worthy exponent of what correct business methods, coupled with a determination to be up to the times, will do. Their elegant fixture rooms at 319-321 South 15th st., are stored full of the latest designs in gas and electric chandeliers known to the trade.

A Remarkable Surgical Operation. A school boy in Edinburgh scalded his left leg and foot from knee to toes so badly that the skin peeled off and the flesh ulcerated. There being no signs of healing, the surgeon obtained a greyhound puppy, seven days old, eviscerated it to death, shaved its body closely, skinned it and with the skin grafted the skin of the boy, so as to cover the ulcerated spots. The result was surprising. The leg rapidly healed, and when the patient was discharged "the color of the grafted skin was uniform and very similar to that of the normal skin."

Absolutely fire proof. Finest and largest hotel in Kansas City. Unexcelled in its appointments.

A New Atlantic Cable.

A new Atlantic cable is spoken of, to extend from New York, Ireland, to Greenly Island, in the straits of Belle Isle. The comparative shortness of the cable—1,900 miles—is used as an argument in favor of the scheme, although longer telegraph lines will be required than for any of the English-American cables.

Raising Wild Ducks.

James M. Rice, a farmer living in Indiana, is trying the experiment of raising wild geese and ducks. He has a full dozen of each, which he has on ponds on his farm. They were caught on the Kankakee river last fall, and he keeps their wings clipped. They have become quite tame, but it remains to be seen whether they will become thoroughly domesticated and breed.

Two wild ducks have been living on an adjoining farm for three years, but have never reared any young.
